

MANAGEMENT ROLES and SKILLS

Define “role”

- A role is a set of behaviours associated with a particular job

Mintzberg's Managerial Roles

- Henry Mintzberg studied CEOs at work and created a scheme to define what managers do on the job. These are commonly referred to as Mintzberg's managerial roles.
- These can be grouped into three primary headings: interpersonal, informational and decisional

INTERPERSONAL

Role	Description	Identifiable Activity
Figurehead	Manager serves as an official representative of the organization or unit	Greeting visitors, signing legal documents Officiating ceremonies
Leader	Manager guides and motivates staff and acts as a positive influence in the workplace	Staffing, training, creating an enabling environment
Liaison	Manager interacts with peers and with people outside the organization to gain information	Acknowledging mail/email; serving on boards; performing activities that involve outsiders

INFORMATIONAL

Role	Description	Identifiable Activity
Monitor	Manager receives and collects information	Reading magazines and reports; maintaining personal contacts
Disseminator	Manager distributes information within the organization	Holding meetings; making phone calls to relay information; email/memos
Spokesperson	Manager distributes information outside the organization	Holding board meetings; giving information to the media

DECISIONAL

Role	Description	Identifiable Activity
Entrepreneur	Manager initiates change/exploiting opportunities or solving problems and taking actions to improve the existing situation.	Organizing sessions to develop new programs; supervises design of projects
Disturbance Handler	Manager decides how conflicts between subordinates should be resolved	Steps in when an employee suddenly leaves or an important customer is lost
Resource Allocator	Manager decides how the organization will use its resources	Scheduling; requesting authorization; budgeting
Negotiator	Manager decides to negotiate major contracts with other organizations or individuals	Participating in union contract negotiations or in those with suppliers

MANAGEMENT SKILLS

- What are the critical skills that are related to managerial competence?
- Generally speaking, effective managers must be proficient in three major skill areas:
 - Conceptual
 - Interpersonal
 - Technical

Technical skills

- The ability to apply specialized knowledge or expertise in a particular field.
- Specific abilities that people use to perform their jobs.

Interpersonal skills

- The ability to work with, understand, mentor, and motivate other people.
- Interviewing job applicants, forming partnerships with other businesses, and resolving conflicts all require these skills.

Conceptual skills

- The mental ability to analyze and diagnose situations.
- The skills that help managers understand how different parts of a business relate to one another and to the business as a whole.
- Decision making, planning, and organizing require these skills.
- The manager should be able to see the organisation as a whole.

